Thank You

The flowers at Putnoe Heights Church this week have been given by Mrs Veta Hudson-Rae in memory of her mother and to celebrate her own birthday today and Samuel's birthday next week.

We are always grateful for any donations for flowers perhaps to celebrate a special occasion, an anniversary or in memory of a loved one. Please contact Miss Marion Prior 303254 (St Mark's) or Miss Jennie Cooper 404950 (Putnoe Heights)

Prayer for Sunday

Lord God, in whom we live and move and have our being, open our eyes to your Fatherly presence forever around us. Draw our hearts with the power of your love and teach us to be anxious for nothing. Take from us all doubt and mistrust and lift our thoughts heavenwards into the light of your glory; through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Brooke Foss Westcott, 1825-1901

Telecare

It is extremely helpful to the Ministers to be able to have feed back, especially if somebody is poorly or in hospital. If you have not yet put your name down on the Telecare scheme, please do so. Additional members of the Pastoral Team are sharing the task of making telephone calls. Please do not be concerned if a new person calls.

24th in Ordinary

Opening Verse - Psalm 113:2-3

Blessed be the name of the Lord,
from this time on and forevermore.
From the rising of the sun to its setting, the name of the Lord is to be praised.

Collect Prayer for the Day -

Before we read we pray

Merciful God, you have prepared for those who love you, such good things as pass our understanding.
Pour into our hearts such love towards you that we, loving you above all things, may obtain your promises, which exceed all that we can desire; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

First Bible Reading - Amos 8: 4-7

Hear this, you who trample the needy and do away with the poor of the land, saying, "When will the New Moon be over that we may sell grain, and the Sabbath be ended that we may market wheat?"- skimping the measure, boosting the price and cheating with dishonest scales, buying the poor with silver and the needy for a pair of sandals, selling even the sweepings with the wheat. The LORD has sworn by the Pride of Jacob: "I will never forget anything they have done.

(This is the word of the Lord - Thanks be to God)

Second Bible Reading - 1 Timothy 2: 1-7

I urge, then, first of all, that requests, prayers, intercession and thanksgiving be made for everyone-- for kings and all those in authority, that we may live peaceful and quiet lives in all godliness and holiness. This is good, and pleases God our Saviour, who wants all men to be saved and to come to a knowledge of the truth. For there is one God and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus, who gave himself as a ransom for all men--the testimony given in its proper time. And for this purpose I was appointed a herald and an apostle--I am telling the truth, I am not lying--and a teacher of the true faith to the Gentiles.

(This is the word of the Lord- Thanks be to God)

Third Bible Reading – Luke 16: 1-13

Jesus told his disciples: "There was a rich man whose manager was accused of wasting his possessions. So he called him in and asked him, 'What is this I hear about you? Give an account of your management, because you cannot be manager any longer.' "The manager said to himself, 'What shall I do now? My master is taking away my job. I'm not strong enough to dig, and I'm ashamed to beg-- know what I'll do so that, when I lose my job here, people will welcome me into their houses.' "So he called in each one of his master's debtors. He asked the first, 'How much do you owe my master?' " 'Eight hundred gallons of olive oil,' he replied. "The manager told him, 'Take your bill, sit down quickly, and make it four hundred.' "Then he asked the second, 'And how much do you owe?' " 'A thousand bushels of wheat,' he replied. "He told him, 'Take your bill and make it eight hundred.' "The master commended the dishonest manager because he had acted shrewdly. For the people of this world are more shrewd in dealing with their own kind than are the people of the light. I tell you, use worldly wealth to gain friends for yourselves, so that when it is gone, you will be welcomed into eternal dwellings. "Whoever can be trusted with very little can also be trusted with much, and whoever is dishonest with very little will also be dishonest with much. So if you have not been trustworthy in handling worldly wealth, who will trust you with true riches? And if you have not been trustworthy with someone else's property, who will give you property of your own? "No servant can serve two masters. Either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve both God and Money."

(This is the word of the Lord -Thanks be to God)

Post Communion Prayer

God of our pilgrimage, you have willed that the gates of mercy should stand open for those who trust in you: look upon us with your favour that we who follow the path of your will may never wander from the way of life, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

Commentary

Almost everybody says what a difficult parable this one from Luke is. Jesus appears to be commending the behaviour of a dishonest manager, would Jesus really extol the virtues of corrupt business practice? We need to remember that the parables of Jesus do have some fairly horrible people used as examples. It is not that we should copy these people, rather there are lessons to be observed from what they do. In the parable of the wise and foolish virgins for example, the wise virgins tell the foolish ones to go and get their own oil instead of trying to borrow some of theirs. This is quite selfish behaviour, but the point Jesus is making is that we should be prepared, he is not saying we should be selfish and refuse to share with others. Think again about the man who knew that treasure was buried in a field. He said nothing to the owner but went and bought the field. That is not particularly pleasant behaviour, but it does make the point that if something is valuable, then it is worth sacrificing everything to get hold of it.

In the story from Luke this week, we are told about a manager who has been incompetent. Faced with the prospect of the sack, he prepares for himself an exit strategy which will be like a golden parachute. From being an incompetent manager he instead is able to act in a very resourceful manner, boosted by an instinct for personal survival. He decides upon a plan which will allow him to ingratiate himself to lots of rich people, before his dismissal becomes public knowledge. As a result the rich people will welcome him into their homes and offer him hospitality, and provide favours when he is 'in between' employment. Perhaps if he ingratiates himself with enough people, someone might even help him to find a better job – or might hire him.

The first thing to note about the story is that the rich master appears to have been acting in a way which broke the Jewish law. In Deuteronomy 23:19 it says
'Do not charge your brother interest, whether on money or food or anything else that may earn interest. You may charge a foreigner interest, but not a brother Israelite, so that the LORD your God may bless you in everything you put your hand to in the land you are entering to possess.'

Jewish belief was that righteous lenders should not profit from their neighbours by charging interest. The King James Version of the Bible always used the word 'usury.' It is hard for us in today's society to understand interest as a bad thing, but this is only because we all owe so much! Great philosophers and theologians from Plato and Aristotle to Luther and Zwingli all condemned charging interest.

Jews were forbidden to practice usury (interest charged), but many schemes were devised to get around it, and these are still used by strict Jews. As an example, lending was often done in kind, with oil and wheat being suitable commodities. The rich man had most probably been involved in this practice and so the manager makes changes to the payment accounts, effectively lowering the rate of interest!

The amounts involved were large. A hundred bathous of olive oil, a bath is about nine gallons, so the debtor owes 900 gallons of olive oil. A hundred koros of wheat, a cor is approximately 10-15 bushels, so the debtor owes 1000-1500 bushels of wheat. This is a big banking business and the discounts which the manager offers are fifty percent for one and twenty percent for the other. With such huge savings it is reasonable to assume that the word of the rich man's generosity will soon spread, enhancing his reputation. He will then be faced with two options, either enjoying his newly enhanced reputation and accepting his losses or retracting the discounts at the expense of his reputation and at the risk of permanently damaging the relationship with his debtors. The manager has left the debtors with the impression that he is equally responsible for the reductions thus leaving the rich man's debtors in debt to himself as well. The rich man cannot rescind the discounts without suffering loss of honour and creating bad will among his debtors. The rich man has to concede that the manager has pulled a brilliant stroke!

Jesus notes how children of this age, people who are worldly wise, are focused on the realm of this world.

They understand how the world works and they are capable of manipulating it to their benefit. So too children of the kingdom need to be equally savvy in ways to prosper in the kingdom of God.

We need today to hear the parable first of all as if we were the original listeners. The crisis management shown by the manger was excellent. The first hearers of this parable were about to face their own crisis. Jesus will continue to Jerusalem and there will follow turbulent times with the persecutions and the fall of Rome. How will Jesus followers behave? When things get really difficult, will they be prudent and think of their long term future, or will they crumble in the face of adversity and perhaps forsake their convictions? We can ask ourselves the same question when we are faced with crisis. So Jesus is not using this shrewd manger as a role model, but he is drawing attention to how a shrewd, worldly wise man can be empowered by self interest to do some very inventive things to secure future prospects. He does not commend the poor business ethics, but he is encouraging his hearers to be imaginative and focused when it comes to planning for their future and that of the Kingdom. This parable is an encouragement to be single minded, focused and take spiritual provision for the future seriously. It is about our fundamental choices and loyalties, God and his Kingdom values should take centre stage in our lives.

Read through Luke and you will see a great deal of teaching about money, poverty, kindness to the poor. Luke shows us a Jesus who is suspicious of world wealth. Material wealth can become a preoccupation and divert our attention away from the important eternal spiritual values. We have all seen how money can break up personal friendships, families and marriages. So too wars are fought over land and resources. The temptation can be to think that we should just avoid the whole economic system. Jesus doesn't say that, rather he tells us that we should not try and be pure and uncontaminated by worldly wealth, instead we should use it wisely. We will find it hard to keep our hands clean, but that doesn't mean we can keep them in our pockets. Charles Royden

Meditation It is now ten years since the death of Mother Teresa of Calcutta. A publication of a book of her letters shows that for nearly the last fifty years of her life she felt no experience of the presence of God. Time Magazine printed an article analysing her experience. Christianity is not about seeking spiritual experiences. Mother Teresa's is an example to us all and an encouragement of all who struggle and doubt. In a culture which is all too obsessed with feelings, the value of commitment is shown by this saint .

Prayers for Sunday and the Week Ahead

Help us, O God, to feel good about giving without feeling that it makes us better than anyone else. Help us to find joy in sharing without assuming that it gives us the right to look down at those who have little to share. May your love rather than our pride go into all the world with these gifts. Amen.

God our heavenly Father, when the thought of you wakes in our hearts, let its awakening not be like a startled bird that flies about in fear. Instead, let it be like a child waking from sleep with a heavenly smile.

O Christ, our Morning Star, Splendour of Light Eternal, shining with the glory of the rainbow, come and waken us from the greyness of our apathy, and renew in us your gift of hope. Amen.

Lord Jesus, I give you my hands to do your work. I give you my feet to go your way. I give you my eyes to see as you do. I give you my tongue to speak your words. I give you my mind that you may think in me. I give you my spirit that you may pray in me. Above all, I give you my heart that you may love in me your Father and all mankind. I give you my whole self that you may grow in me, so that it is you, Lord Jesus, who live and work and pray in me.

Set The Video Look out for 'Friends and Heroes,' a UK-produced animated adventure series for primary school children. Churches call for full ban on cluster bombs
The Methodist Church, the United Reformed Church and the Baptist Union of Great Britain call on the UK Government to end their use of cluster bombs by UK forces. The churches are asking Foreign Secretary David Miliband to support an international ban on such weapons. Cluster bombs are air or ground launched devices that scatter smaller bombs (or submunitions) over a large area. The submunitions that fail to explode pose a unique threat to civilians. These unexploded bombs effectively create minefields and maim and kill children or adults who disturb them later on. In the two months after the conflict between Israel and Hezbollah, three or four civilians were killed, on average, every day by unexploded cluster bombs. On average, a child died each day as a result of these weapons. The Revd David Deeks, General Secretary of the Methodist Church, says there is still much more to be done; "Important progress has been made, but that's no reason to stop now. The UK still retains other types of cluster bomb, which are just as inhumane and leave behind a deadly legacy. It's time for the Government to act on the promises made earlier this year and show that it means business." The Churches have also published campaign information online at www.jointpublicissues.org.uk/clustermunitions showing how everybody can make a difference.

Walk the wall and help save innocent lives!

Feed The Children UK will be abseiling the 140ft tall Bedford Park Inn on Sunday 21st October 07, to raise money to help some of the poorest children around the world. Why not join us and help save a child's life? All you have to do is pay a £10 registration fee (which goes towards the cost of the abseil company) and then pledge to raise £100 in sponsorship. To find out more about this exciting event call Miranda on 0118 932 0095, email mparker@feedthechildren.org.uk or see the events section at www.feedthechildren.org.uk to download an application form. Rest In Peace

On the Sunday following a funeral service we remember in church those who have died. We light a candle to symbolise the light of Christ which eternally shines and brings hope. If you would like a person remembered in our service when the candle is lit, perhaps on an anniversary or birthday, please inform the ministers, or telephone the church office.

Hazel Worthington

May the souls of all the faithful departed through the mercy of God, rest in peace and rise in glory. Amen.
