Thank You

The flowers at Putnoe Heights Church this week have been given by Dorothy Billingham in memory of her husband Ridley.

We are always grateful for any donations for flowers perhaps to celebrate a special occasion, an anniversary or in memory of a loved one. Please contact Miss Marion Prior 303254 (St Mark's) or Miss Jennie Cooper 404950 (Putnoe Heights)

Prayer for Sunday

Gracious God,
let the light of your face shine upon us.
Let your peace rule in our hearts, your strength be our song and your grace be sufficient for our need.

Prepare us for the events of each day that we may take up our cross and follow in the steps of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Amen.

Matthew Henry, 1662-1714

Christ the King

Opening Verse - Psalm 139

O LORD, you have searched me and you know me. You know when I sit and when I rise; you perceive my thoughts from afar. You discern my going out and my lying down; you are familiar with all my ways.

Collect Prayer for the Day

Stir up, O Lord, the wills of your faithful people, that they, bringing forth the fruit of good works, may by you be richly rewarded: through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen Methodist Worship

First Bible Reading - Jeremiah 23: 1-6

Woe to the shepherds who are destroying and scattering the sheep of my pasture!" declares the LORD .Therefore this is what the LORD , the God of Israel, says to the shepherds who tend my people: "Because you have scattered my flock and driven them away and have not bestowed care on them, I will bestow punishment on you for the evil you have done," declares the LORD "I myself will gather the remnant of my flock out of all the countries where I have driven them and will bring them back to their pasture, where they will be fruitful and increase in number. I will place shepherds over them who will tend them, and they will no longer be afraid or terrified, nor will any be missing," declares the LORD . "The days are coming," declares the LORD , "when I will raise up to David a righteous Branch, a King who will reign wisely and do what is just and right in the land. In his days Judah will be saved and Israel will live in safety. This is the name by which he will be called: The LORD Our Righteousness (This is the word of the Lord - All: Thanks be to God)

Second Bible Reading - Colossians 1: 11-20

And we pray this in order that you may live a life worthy of the Lord and may please him in every way: bearing fruit in every good work, growing in the knowledge of God, being strengthened with all power according to his glorious might so that you may have great endurance and patience, and joyfully giving thanks to the Father, who has qualified you to share in the inheritance of the saints in the kingdom of light. For he has rescued us from the dominion of darkness and brought us into the kingdom of the Son he loves, in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins. He is the image of the invisible God, the firstborn over all creation. For by him all things were created: things in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or powers or rulers or authorities; all things were created by him and for him. He is before all things, and in him all things hold together. And he is the head of the body, the church; he is the beginning and the firstborn from among the dead, so that in everything he might have the supremacy. For God was pleased to have all his fullness dwell in him, and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether things on earth or things in heaven, by making peace through his blood, shed on the cross. (This is the word of the Lord - All: Thanks be to God)

Third Reading - Luke 23: 23-33

.When they came to the place called the Skull, there they crucified him, along with the criminals-- one on his right, the other on his left. Jesus said, "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing." And they divided up his clothes by casting lots. The people stood watching, and the rulers even sneered at him. They said, "He saved others; let him save himself if he is the Christ of God, the Chosen One." The soldiers also came up and mocked him. They offered him wine vinegar and said, "If you are the king of the Jews, save yourself." There was a written notice above him, which read: THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS. One of the criminals who hung there hurled insults at him: "Aren't you the Christ? Save yourself and us!" But the other criminal rebuked him. "Don't you fear God," he said, "since you are under the same sentence? We are punished justly, for we are getting what our deeds deserve. But this man has done nothing wrong." Then he said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom." Jesus answered him, "I tell you the truth, today you will be with me in paradise. (Reader: This is the word of the Lord. All: Thanks be to God)

Post Communion Prayer

Lord Jesus Christ you ascended to the throne of heaven to rule over all things as Lord and King: keep the Church in the unity of the Spirit and in the bond of peace, that the whole created order may come to worship at your feet.

Commentary

Today's readings tell of the object of Christ's coming to earth. God had created a beautiful world for men and women to live in and enjoy but from the very beginning, starting with Adam and Eve, men and women have rebelled and disobeyed God. He tried, through the prophets, to have people reconciled to Him and it was only because He loved the world so much that when that failed, He sent His Son Jesus Christ to bring salvation and reconciliation.

The means of reconciliation was the blood of Jesus shed on the Cross. The Cross is proof that God was prepared to go to such length to win the hearts of His people. Jesus came and performed wonderful acts of healing to manifest that love, - to tell of the love of God, and was ready to suffer the most cruel death to bring that salvation.

Sin creates a barrier between us and God and separates us from Him. Jesus could have refused to go to the Cross but the fact that He did not, and was prepared to suffer so much so that the sins of people can be forgiven, shows the limitless love of God.

If we are to one day enjoy eternity in heaven with Jesus Christ a response from us is required. It is not enough to say, 'I am a Christian', there needs to be some evidence. To that rhetorical question, 'if you were arrested for being a Christian would there be enough evidence to convict you?' we should give some thought.

Do you attend Church?, the Bible states 'let us not give up meeting together, as some are in the habit of doing, but let us encourage one another, (Hebrews 10v25) Do you share fellowship with other Christians? Do you read your Bible? Do you believe Jesus died on the Cross—for you? If you are unable to answer, you need not fear arrest. The old excuse that you don't have to go to Church to be a Christian may give a sense of relief to one's conscience, but it doesn't really mean anything. Neither does the other statement that one only needs to be honest, a good neighbour and nice person. Many atheists are lovely people in themselves and are very kind and helpful, but they would be offended to be called Christian. Most people have made a vow at some time to God. Perhaps when ill (especially in hospital), or when in trouble or need of some kind, and promised God if He helped them, they would remember, and worship Him. Perhaps at a baptism service, promising to set an example by bringing the child to Church. So why are there so many empty chairs? (Eric Royden)

Hymns (Please distribute Mission Praise and Morning Worship)

1. Crown Him with many crowns MP109
2. I want to walk with Jesus Christ MP302
3. I will sing the wondrous story MP315 (Hyfrydol)
4. Love divine all loves excelling MP449 (Blaenwern)
5. Guide me O thou Great Jehovah MP201 (Cwm Rhondda)

Meditation The story of the Cross should make us meditate on how seriously each of us takes it, and just what it means to us. For many people the Cross is but a piece of jewellery which is not treated with the respect and reverence it merits. So many people wear the Cross whilst living the most unworthy lives. We should remember the Cross was an instrument of horrific tortuous death. No one would think of wearing any other token of death. Anyone wearing a Cross should be fully aware of the price paid by the One who died on it on our behalf and wear it with pride and thankfulness. (Eric Royden)

Prayers for Sunday and the Week Ahead

Loving Heavenly Father I thank you for this new day, for its promise, its challenge and its opportunity. I have little to give you this day, but within my trembling hand I give you this will of mine and things that seem small, for you alone, O Lord, understand that when I yield Thee this I yield Thee all. So may my life this day, in all I think, speak or do, shew forth the mind of Christ. Amen.

God our Friend and protector, as we go through life help us to offer a hand of love and friendship to all in need. As our lives develop, like the seasons – spring when we blossom in our own ways, summer when we are full of the joys of young life, autumn when we hope to pass on the wisdom we have learnt, winter when we need the comfort of your presence at the closing of our days – may we remember to thank you in our prayers for all your many blessings and help throughout our lives.

Banking crisis has moral root and solution, says Bishop of St Albans Wednesday 14th November 2007

The Bishop of St Albans, the Rt Revd Christopher Herbert, speaking in the House of Lords, called for a fresh approach to restoring damaged trust in the banking industry. He called the giving of bank loans to people "...knowing that customers are not really aware of the risks they are taking," a moral, not just an economic problem.

Over 2,700 years ago a poem of thund'rous beauty was written about economic affairs. The poet, looking around him, saw a land which was rich and prosperous: the vineyard was bearing much fruit. But then things began to go terribly wrong: greed began to prevail over justice, oppression was rife, mercy was no longer part of the social or political vocabulary. "Woe to you", said the poet, "who join house to house, field to field, until there is room for no-one but you....". He could have been describing the London property market or the banking industry. The poem is a long one but in it the relationship between social morality and economic affairs is examined with powerful precision.

In trying to understand our current economic problems, and in particular the banking crisis, I have read the newspapers fairly carefully and I have been much helped by articles such as the one by the noble Lord, Lord Rees Mogg in The Times this week (Monday 12 November). In that article he drew attention to some new regulations FAS 157 and 159: and explained that those regulations "will set the terms on which banks value their assets". And then wrote, crisply and clearly: 'No assets, no lending; no lending, no banks'. It's a gem of a summary.

In the same newspaper on the same day, in an article about one of Britain's major banks, the journalist quoted an "insider" as saying that his bank had: "always been at the transparent end of the spectrum". The implication that other banks are not is easily drawn.

One of the things that has been missing from newspaper comment on the banking crisis has been any explicit reference to the morality upon which good banking practice is necessarily based. There has been the inevitable targeting of individuals from the Governor of the Bank of England to the CEO of Northern Rock – but that kind of targeted attack misses the much bigger issues concerned with the probity of institutions, about the moral relationship that exists between trust and risk and reward; about the moral accountability of those who have financial control over the most vulnerable; about the morality of a society in which the gap between rich and poor remains achingly large; about the morality of a housing market, left to its own devices, which leaves the poor and the young trapped in despair.

In a democratic society, banking depends upon trust. The unwritten, unspoken contract is that if I lend money to a bank I shall receive that money back in due course. If that moral trust is lacking or if faith is broken, the banking system will collapse.

The current failures in the system are as much to do with morality as with economic mechanics. If I over-lend or encourage indebtedness (what was that ho-ho phrase about the banks being "over-exuberant?") knowing that my customers are not really aware of the risks they are taking then that is not a mechanical problem but a moral one. And no amount of arcane economic speak about CDO's or selling debt or sub-prime lending can conceal the fact that the issue is a moral one.

It seems to me there is an urgent need for Her Majesty's Government to take action at two levels: the first is to call together senior bankers with ethicists, philosophers and theologians to reflect on the moral values which should underline good banking practice, and the second is to take action, urgent and necessary action, to support those Citizens Advice Bureaux through the country where the problems of indebtedness are encountered on a daily basis amongst the poor, the lonely, and the most vulnerable. If my call does not produce any response I recommend a course in the reading of poetry – and especially the poetry of a man called Isaiah. It's all there.

From Bechar. Thank you for supporting us over the Christmas period. We will be providing important help and support over Christmas in Bedford with meals and all of the usual drop in facilities and services. We expect each day to provide for about 70 people at our Prebend Street Day Care Centre. We will be providing warm clothing to some of those who are badly equipped to face the cold weather. Your financial support is greatly appreciated.

St Mark's Church Leadership Team. There will be a meeting of the Leadership Team this week on Wednesday at the home of Delia Shephard. The meeting is 7.30pm for 7.45pm

See Round. Please take the Christmas edition of See Round this morning. The message this year from Bishop Christopher in See Round speaks about the birth place of Jesus in Bethlehem. A picture of the said cave can be seen on the back of the church Christmas cards which are available from the church offices priced at £2.50 for 10 cards. All proceeds are for church funds—at this price you can afford to send them far and wide.

Advent Wreath Lighting Ceremony. A copy of the liturgy is now available for those lighting Advent candles. Copies are in the church office or can be downloaded on our website.

Mission Update. Thank you to all who have already taken their envelopes. If you were unable to get one last week they are still available from the table in the foyer at St Mark's or from the church offices. Please return as soon as possible and at the latest by 2 December. We have now raised over £1,000 at each church! Will keep you updated on progress.

A big thank you to all who helped with the Christmas Fayre at St Mark's yesterday. It was a wonderful community event and we also raised a remarkable £ This will be put towards the large and small hall refurbishments which we hope to carry out soon. The scheme will replace the existing ceiling, lighting floor, doors and furnishing. We are currently seeking grant support to increase our own fundraising.

Stir us Up ! Today is the last Sunday of the church year, next week the year begins with the first Sunday in Advent, four Sundays before Christmas. Our collect today reminds us that it is 'Stir Up Sunday' a Sunday synonymous with Christmas puddings. The great cry 'stir up' was a reminder to congregations to get the Christmas pudding made in plenty of time to mature before Christmas. An important addition to the mixture is a coin, whoever gets it on their plate on Christmas Day should get worldly riches heaped upon them.

The Stir Up prayer is actually asking God for something much more important. We are praying that God will stir up our wills, so that we might get on with doing the good works that he has planned for us to do. Then, as a consequence, we pray that we might receive our abundant reward.

In an age when so much is about how we feel, it is interesting to get another perspective. In the end, it is our will, rather than our feelings that govern our actions. Real love is not about feeling it is about choosing, by our wills, to do good to others even though we may not feel good towards them. Our feelings should not dominate our wills. So we pray that God will "stir up" our wills, so that they will be in charge of us, doing what we know is right.

Rest In Peace

On the Sunday following a funeral service we remember in church those who have died. We light a candle to symbolise the light of Christ which eternally shines and brings hope. If you would like a person remembered in our service when the candle is lit, perhaps on an anniversary or birthday, please inform the ministers, or telephone the church office

Phyllis Serena Webb
