Thank You

The flowers at Putnoe Heights have been given by Doreen Denny in memory of her husband Len on his birthday and by Harry and Margery Charie to celebrate their wedding anniversary.

We are grateful when people make donations towards flowers perhaps to celebrate a special occasion such as an anniversary or in memory of a loved one. Please contact Miss Marion Prior 303254 (St. Mark's) or Ann Hitt 404186 (Putnoe Heights) or add your name to the rota in the Foyers.

Prayer for Sunday

Your love has never slackened nor ever shall. In love all your works have begun, by love you sustain them and in your love our life is everlasting. So let the beginning and ending of all our loving be to see our God for ever and ever. Amen.

Ordinary 13

Sentence of Scripture 2 Corinthians 8

For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that you through his poverty might become rich.

Collect Prayer for the Day Before we read we pray

Lord of heaven and earth, you sent your Holy Spirit to be the life and power of your Church. Sow in our hearts the seeds of your grace, that we may bear the fruit of the Spirit, in love and joy and peace; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

First Bible Reading - Wisdom of Solomon 1: 13-15 2: 23-24

God did not make death, and he does not delight in the death of the living. For he created all things so that they might exist; the generative forces of the world are wholesome, and there is no destructive poison in them, and the dominion of Hades is not on earth. For righteousness is immortal. God created us for incorruption, and made us in the image of his own eternity, but through the devil's envy death entered the world, and those who belong to his company experience it.

(This is the word of the Lord —Thanks be to God)

Second Bible Reading - 2 Corinthians 8: 7-15

But just as you excel in everything—in faith, in speech, in knowledge, in complete earnestness and in your love for us see that you also excel in this grace of giving. I am not commanding you, but I want to test the sincerity of your love by comparing it with the earnestness of others. For you know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, so that you through his poverty might become rich. And here is my advice about what is best for you in this matter: Last year you were the first not only to give but also to have the desire to do so. Now finish the work, so that your eager willingness to do it may be matched by your completion of it, according to your means. For if the willingness is there, the gift is acceptable according to what one has, not according to what he does not have.

Our desire is not that others might be relieved while you are hard pressed, but that there might be equality. At the present time your plenty will supply what they need, so that in turn their plenty will supply what you need. Then there will be equality, as it is written: "He who gathered much did not have too much, and he who gathered little did not have too little."

Gospel Reading Mark 5:21-43

When Jesus had again crossed over by boat to the other side of the lake, a large crowd gathered around him while he was by the lake. Then one of the synagogue rulers, named Jairus, came there. Seeing Jesus, he fell at his feet and pleaded earnestly with him, "My little daughter is dying. Please come and put your hands on her so that she will be healed and live." So Jesus went with him.

A large crowd followed and pressed around him. And a woman was there who had been subject to bleeding for twelve years. She had suffered a great deal under the care of many doctors and had spent all she had, yet instead of getting better she grew worse. When she heard about Jesus, she came up behind him in the crowd and touched his cloak, because she thought, "If I just touch his clothes, I will be healed." Immediately her bleeding stopped and she felt in her body that she was freed from her suffering. At once Jesus realized that power had gone out from him. He turned around in the crowd and asked, "Who touched my clothes?" "You see the people crowding against you," his disciples answered, "and yet you can ask, 'Who touched me?'" But Jesus kept looking around to see who had done it. Then the woman, knowing what had happened to her, came and fell at his feet and, trembling with fear, told him the whole truth. He said to her, "Daughter, your faith has healed you. Go in peace and be freed from your suffering." While Jesus was still speaking, some men came from the house of Jairus, the synagogue ruler. "Your daughter is dead," they said. "Why bother the teacher any more?" Ignoring what they said, Jesus told the synagogue ruler, "Don't be afraid; just believe." He did not let anyone follow him except Peter, James and John the brother of James.

When they came to the home of the synagogue ruler, Jesus saw a commotion, with people crying and wailing loudly. He went in and said to them, "Why all this commotion and wailing? The child is not dead but asleep." But they laughed at him. After he put them all out, he took the child's father and mother and the disciples who were with him, and went in where the child was. He took her by the hand and said to her, "Talitha kum!" (which means, "Little girl, I say to you, get up!"). Immediately the girl stood up and walked around (she was twelve years old). At this they were completely astonished. He gave strict orders not to let anyone know about this, and told them to give her something to eat. (This is the word of the Lord – Thanks be to God)

Post Communion Prayer

O God, whose beauty is beyond our imagining and whose power we cannot comprehend: show us your glory as far as we can grasp it, and shield us from knowing more than we can bear until we may look upon you without fear; through Jesus Christ our Saviour. Amen

Commentary

Two stories or one?

At first reading it looks like Mark has interspersed one story with another. As the reading opens we hear about a Synagogue ruler called Jairus (probably the President of the Synagogue), coming to Jesus with a request. Just as this story begins to unfold another story seems to break into the narrative, that of a woman who had been bleeding for 12 years. Is it two stories or is it just one? There are certainly common elements. Both Jairus and the woman with bleeding, who interestingly remains anonymous throughout the story, come to Jesus driven by a fear that overcomes all of their other fears. Albeit for different reasons, they are both at their wits end and utterly desperate. No matter what else they may fear as a result of coming to Jesus, it falls into insignificance if there is even the slightest hope that in coming to Jesus things might change.

Jairus was an important man in the hierarchy of the Synagogue, probably one of the most important and influential members of those in authority. It was those associated with the Synagogue and the Jewish ruling party which had been so questioning of Jesus and everything He did. Now here was one of their elders coming to Jesus, falling at His feet and pleading with Him to save his daughter. Jairus risks the disapproval of his community, almost certain questioning and disapproval from his colleagues, friends and family to fall before Jesus. Jairus himself probably still had doubts and uncertainties about who Jesus was and what He was doing. But he is prepared to risk everything to save his daughter.

For the woman who had been bleeding for so long, her fears were probably less about status but about never being well again and always being tired and an outcast, seen as unclean by the people she lived with. She fears embarrassment of being found out and discovery and rejection by the crowd. She is even too frightened to ask Jesus for anything but merely hopes by touching Him something might happen to change her life. She too is desperate.

Probably coming from different directions both Jairus and the woman push and elbow their way to the place in the crowd where they can encounter Jesus. Jesus agrees to go with Jairus and they set off towards his house, with the crowds in tow, all looking to be in on the action. It's whilst they are on their way that the woman touches Jesus and the entourage comes to a halt. You can imagine the crowds almost willing Jesus on to Jairus' house, they don't want to get distracted by a woman who has just touched his clothes.

You can imagine Jairus thinking, 'Come on Jesus, we're losing time here, what's going on, don't allow yourself to get distracted. If you get distracted now we'll never get there and it will all be too late'. For neither Jairus nor the woman there seems to be no great statement of faith, it might seem as if they are reaching out to Jesus as a last resort, thinking 'I've tried everything else so I might as well see if this works.' But it is more than that. Whilst there is no great expression of faith there is for both of them a profound belief that Jesus could heal. They seemed to have heard what was possible, and whilst perhaps not understanding it, they believed that meeting Jesus and asking him to intervene would make a difference to their circumstances. They knew it was possible, and that Jesus could make a difference, He could heal and perform many other wonders, the doubt in their minds was would He for them. We see from Jesus' responses that He did. Even though He was held up going to meet Jairus' daughter He had time for both and restored both to healing and health.

Underlying the story there is also great symbolism, linking back as far as Genesis. A symbolism we might more often associate with the Gospel of John. But we should not confuse this symbolism with the compassionate act of Jesus. Jesus may have wanted to make a point in the timing and manner in which these people were healed. Mark, the Gospel writer may have wanted to make a point in the way in which he retells the story and where he places it in His gospel. But central to the story are the compassionate acts of Jesus as He goes about His way, restoring creation to the way in which it was intended to be. This too is central to the theme of Mark. Mark shows Jesus in action, using the deeds of Jesus to emphasise who He is and why He has come into the world. He shows through these actions of Jesus that He is indeed God's Son.

The two stories in today's reading come immediately after Jesus has calmed the storm and the casting out of demons from the Gerasene man. Jesus has shown His power over the forces of nature. Jesus has shown His power over dark and demonic forces. Jesus now shows His power over sickness and death, seen by some as the ultimate sickness. In so doing we see the two stories become one. Underpinning all of the stories is the sense of hopelessness. The disciples thought they were beyond hope and about to die in the boat, the demoniac was beyond hope, Jairus felt he was in a hopeless situation and the woman with bleeding felt she too was beyond all hope. Yet in all of these hopeless situations Jesus acts and brings peace and hope and restores creation to its rightful state. He still does. Sometimes though, we too like Jairus, have to wait until God's good time. Sometimes we wonder why God does not appear to act in the way in which we would like or with the speed we would like. Sometimes it feels like we're just left tapping our feet and God does not care.

Just after these stories Jesus goes to His home town of Nazareth where He is rejected and the people question where His wisdom and power came from. Jesus is amazed at their lack of faith and He appears to say and do little while He is there. For both Jairus and the woman, their faith and belief in Jesus appear to be probably very fragile and uncertain. But in contrast to the people of Nazareth both Jairus and the woman understand that Jesus is more than just a miracle worker. Both show a faith which understands that in some way God Himself was at work in and through Jesus. Sometimes are we more like the people of Nazareth, just wanting Jesus (or God) to perform miracles, rather than like Jairus or the woman with bleeding who saw Jesus as able to offer hope and healing to broken lives and a fallen creation because of who He was, not just because of what He did? Jesus shows in healing both the woman and Jairus' daughter that He has healing power enough for all. His resources never run dry and He continues to want us to reach out to him in our need, even if we feel we only have the faintest glimmer of faith in Him and who He is. Sam Cappleman

Meditation

Our first reading today comes from a group of 12 books known as the Apocrypha. Apocrypha is a Greek word meaning 'hidden'. Many of the Apocryphal writings are similar in style to Old Testament books such as Esther, Jeremiah, Chronicles and Daniel and date from the inter-testamental period. They were probably originally written in Hebrew or Aramaic but are only really known in their Greek form and included in the loosely defined Septuagint which is the Greek translation of the Hebrew Bible. The books were included in the Canon of the Catholic Church in the Council of Trent held between 1545 and 1563 which had been prompted by the Reformation. Protestant understanding varies with some seeing these books more for 'private edification' whilst others use them in liturgy and worship too. The reading today comes from the book called 'The Wisdom of Solomon' seen by some to be the highlight of Jewish Wisdom writing. The book urges its readers to seek the wisdom that is to be found in God and not to abandon their ancestral faith and all the blessings that come from a unique relationship with God. In the times when the book was written there must have been increasing pressures from a modernising and more secular Greek culture but rather than be subsumed into this culture the writer of the Wisdom of Solomon urges the readers not to be conformed to the world in which they now find themselves living, but to live out and interpret their faith with and for those they find around them. It's a challenge we face today. How do we make our faith and the certainty of the risen Christ known in a relevant and meaningful way to those we meet so that they too can know the fullness and freedom this brings in a broken and fragmented world.

Prayers for Sunday and the Week ahead

Lord, I know that you always respond to my most feeble cry, my most tentative reaching out towards you. Increase and strengthen this confidence in me that I shall never fear to bring all my need to you and come to you in faith to receive healing of body and spirit. Make me whole, as it is your will that all people should be whole, to praise your wonderful life and witness to the world. Amen Raymond Chapman, Following the Gospel through the Year

Father God, you give us stewardship over your creation. We are fellow workers with you in tending and caring for your world. Give us wisdom to use the resources you have given us fairly and equally, that all at the present time, and in the generations to come, may know the depth of your generosity and goodness. Amen

The blessing of God Almighty, the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit be among you and remain with you always. Amen New Zealand Prayer Book
