Wednesday at 10am and at Sir William Harpur House on first Monday of every month at 10.00am.

Thank You

The flowers at Putnoe Heights Church this week have been given by Derrick Wren in loving memory of his wife Betty, by Patricia Pollard in loving memory of her mother Eva Hopkins, and by Veta Hudson-Rae in memory of her parents and to celebrate her wedding anniversary.

Welcome

A warm welcome to our worship today and especially to the family and friends of Lleyton Robert Mann at St Mark's and Sydney Amelia Grace Cook at Putnoe Heights who have been brought for baptism

Prayer for Sunday

Grant merciful Father,
that we may be strengthened in your service.
That we might show forth the wonder of your love for us in giving to us yourself in the form of Jesus, the child of Bethlehem. May our lives so reflect your glorious life of sacrifice, that others may come with us to worship. We offer to you our gifts of loving hearts, obedient service and joyful lives, that your glory might be known among all people. Amen.

Sentence of Scripture - Isaiah 60:1-2

"Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the LORD rises upon you. See, darkness covers the earth and thick darkness is over the peoples, but the LORD rises upon you and his glory appears over you. Nations will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your dawn.

Collect Prayer for the Day

Before we read we pray

Creator of the heavens, who led the Magi by a star to worship the Christ-child: guide and sustain us, that we may find our journey's end in Jesus Christ our Lord. Common Worship Shorter Collect

First Bible Reading - Isaiah 60:1-6

"Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the LORD rises upon you. See, darkness covers the earth and thick darkness is over the peoples, but the LORD rises upon you and his glory appears over you. Nations will come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your dawn. "Lift up your eyes and look about you: All assemble and come to you; your sons come from afar, and your daughters are carried on the arm. Then you will look and be radiant, your heart will throb and swell with joy; the wealth on the seas will be brought to you, to you the riches of the nations will come. Herds of camels will cover your land, young camels of Midian and Ephah. And all from Sheba will come, bearing gold and incense and proclaiming the praise of the LORD. (This is the word of the Lord – Thanks be to God)

Second Bible Reading - Ephesians 3:1-12

For this reason I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus for the sake of you Gentiles— Surely you have heard about the administration of God's grace that was given to me for you, that is, the mystery made known to me by revelation, as I have already written briefly. In reading this, then, you will be able to understand my insight into the mystery of Christ, which was not made known to people in other generations as it has now been revealed by the Spirit to God's holy apostles and prophets. This mystery is that through the gospel the Gentiles are heirs together with Israel, members together of one body, and sharers together in the promise in Christ Jesus. I became a servant of this gospel by the gift of God's grace given me through the working of his power. Although I am less than the least of all the Lord's people, this grace was given me: to preach to the Gentiles the boundless riches of Christ, and to make plain to everyone the administration of this mystery, which for ages past was kept hidden in God, who created all things. His intent was that now, through the church, the manifold wisdom of God should be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly realms, according to his eternal purpose that he accomplished in Christ Jesus our Lord. In him and through faith in him we may approach God with freedom and confidence. (This is the word of the Lord-- Thanks be to God)

Gospel Reading - Matthew 2:1-12

After Jesus was born in Bethlehem in Judea, during the time of King Herod, Magi from the east came to Jerusalem and asked, "Where is the one who has been born king of the Jews? We saw his star when it rose and have come to worship him."

When King Herod heard this he was disturbed, and all Jerusalem with him. When he had called together all the people's chief priests and teachers of the law, he asked them where the Messiah was to be born. "In Bethlehem in Judea," they replied, "for this is what the prophet has written: "But you, Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah; for out of you will come a ruler who will shepherd my people Israel."

Then Herod called the Magi secretly and found out from them the exact time the star had appeared. He sent them to Bethlehem and said, "Go and search carefully for the child. As soon as you find him, report to me, so that I too may go and worship him."

After they had heard the king, they went on their way, and the star they had seen when it rose went ahead of them until it stopped over the place where the child was. When they saw the star, they were overjoyed. On coming to the house, they saw the child with his mother Mary, and they bowed down and worshiped him. Then they opened their treasures and presented him with gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh. And having been warned in a dream not to go back to Herod, they returned to their country by another route.

(This is the word of the Lord – Thanks be to God)

Post Communion Prayer Lord God, the bright splendour whom the nations seek: may we who with the wise men have been drawn by your light discern the glory of your presence in your Son, the Word made flesh, Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

Hymns for Sunday

1. Bethlehem of noblest cities (Stuttgart)

5. As with gladness, men of old

Commentary

Our reading from Matthew today begins with

Matthew 2:1 'After Jesus was born in Bethlehem in Judea, during the time of King Herod, Magi from the east came to Jerusalem and asked, "Where is the one who has been born king of the Jews? We saw his star in the east and have come to worship him.'

The Gospel will finish using the same description of words which were fixed over the dying body of Jesus on the cross.

Above his head they placed the written charge against him: this is Jesus, the king of the Jews. Matthew Chapter 27:37 (Note John records 'Jesus of Nazareth, King of the Jews' John 19)

Matthew does not just throw his Gospel together, he uses the materials carefully and in so constructing his Gospel he makes clear this point, the death of Jesus was all part of God's plan - Jesus was the man born to die. The birth of Jesus was God's idea and his death also was not just because of human hate, God gave Jesus to the world. Read the opening chapter of Matthew and this becomes clear

Matthew 1:21

'She will give birth to a son, and you are to give him the name Jesus, because he will save his people from their sins.' All this took place to fulfill what the Lord had said through the prophet: "The virgin will be with child and will give birth to a son, and they will call him Immanuel" --which means, "God with us."

We are being led to recognise that in the birth of Jesus God was acting powerfully to save the world from sin.

There is no need to wonder why Herod was so angry at one who was 'born King of the Jews.'

Herod was king and he liked to call himself the 'King of the Jews', but even he was not born a king, he had been made one by Rome. There is with Herod a strange irony, he was the leader of the Jews and he sought the death of the Messiah, whereas pagans come to offer Jesus worship. Matthew is disparaging towards Herod, in John Chapter 7 we see a crowd of ordinary people who are said to know that the Messiah will come from Bethlehem, the town where David lived, but here we have Herod, the King of the Jews, ignorant and having to consult others on scripture.

So what of these Magi, whom only Matthew mentions? The story has led to fascinating stories and hymns such as 'We three kings of Orient are', however nowhere does Matthew mention 'Kings' and neither does he say how many there were. There is no indication of where they came from, their racial characteristics, their names or their mode of transport. Some have said they came on ships, others say camels. Some say that there were three, because there were three gifts recorded. Western Tradition has named them as Melkon, Balthasar and Caspar. These names were first used by Origen (d. 254) and became popular from the 6th Century. The term Magi come from the Greek magos, a word which gives us the term 'Magician.' These men were sorcerers, readers of the stars. Perhaps the best guess is that they came from Persia or Babylon. In Persia these men were seen as almost a priestly caste of people, they would be consulted by kings because they were known for their magic, their powers of divination and their ability to predict the future. The key point is that they were not Jews. They may have had no knowledge of Judaism, they were visitors from the east and so the birth of Jesus is seen to bring benefits for all people not just the Jews.

A Messiah for the Jews was expected, the descendants of Abraham would be blessed by God. However on this Sunday we are reminded that the birth of Jesus came with very unexpected consequences. Salvation is shown clearly to be inclusive and extends to such an extent that even star gazers without knowledge of the Bible or proper religious background find their way to Jesus and are welcomed. We probably need to remind ourselves just how shocking this would have been. The early Christians themselves struggled over how they could welcome Gentiles into worship of Jesus without them becoming Jews first. Yet right at the time of his birth we find these astrologers among the first to recognise that the baby born in Bethlehem was one to be worshipped. Epiphany is a marvellous moment in the church lectionary when we are reminded that there are no boundaries to who Jesus welcomes, he draws all people to himself.

Matthew's gospel uses the story of the Magi for drama: the star moves across the sky and takes up station above the place where Jesus was born. The births of Pliny and Alexander the Great had supposedly been attended by astral events. Virgil notes that a star led Aeneas to the place where the city of Rome was to be founded. What is distinctive and interesting about this star is that it leads not to somebody famous, but rather to the child of a peasant couple perhaps living in a cave.

The magi bring gifts, of course gifts would be brought and presented to kings. These gifts have been interpreted in all sort of theologically convenient ways.

Gold represents the kingship of Jesus.

Frankincense is a fragrant resin which is burned as incense to symbolize the presence of God, it has been seen to acknowledge the divinity of Jesus.

Myrrh is a precious oil used for anointing the body, Romans used it to mask the smell of burning corpses. Nero had reportedly burned a massive amount at the funeral of his wife Poppaea. This gift is therefore seen to foretell the death of Jesus.

Who knows if this great theological insight was shared by the Magi, I am not sure that the Magi had such a well developed understanding of who and what Jesus was. I do however see them as not having all of the answers themselves. They were on a journey of discovery and God's revelation takes different forms and people can discover God in many ways which we might not understand. Perhaps today above all others we need to praise God for the variety and richness of God's gifts given to so many people in ways which we do not understand

We do not know where Jesus was living, we are even led to believe that Jesus was a child and no longer a baby, indeed the family are no longer living with the animals but in 'house' (verse 11). In the second century Justin Martyr (Dial 79) noted that the Holy Family went to live in a cave near the village of Bethlehem, many peasants at the time did live in such caves.

Whatever the details, the message is clear, that the created world is being called to bear witness to this momentous event. The heavens declare the glory of God – in yet another way Matthew is making a statement about Jesus' ministry and the church: the gospel is to be taught to all nations. As in the subtle additions to his genealogy, which break the pattern by naming women who have been under a cloud, with poor reputations, many of them with Gentile connections, so here Matthew wants us to see the deeper significance of the story. This is a celebration of inclusiveness: the Magi prove Jesus is for all people. Matthew shows in the story of the Magi that seekers from all nations will come to recognize Christ and be welcome in his presence. The promise of Israel's being a light for the nations, as the prophets anticipated, is now fulfilled in Christ.

Matthew shows how the Magi behave and encourages us to do the same, they saw the demands of God's gift and so they left and followed. The story of the Magi today is not an encouragement to study the stars or to think God speaks to us in dreams. Rather it is a story of God meeting people where they are and speaking to them powerfully. The Magi were driven to visit Jesus, they did not know all the answers but they were moved to travel to discover more, to find out about Jesus. The Magi remind us that God's grace works through many different means. Charles Royden

Prayer for Sunday

O God who by the shining of a star didst guide the Magi to behold thy Son, our Lord; show us thy heavenly light, and give us grace to follow until we find him and finding him rejoice. And grant that as they presented gold, frankincense and myrrh, we now may bring him the offering of a loving heart, an adoring spirit and an obedient will, for his honour and for thy glory, O God most high. Prayers for the Christian year

Grant O Lord, that as we go forth once more to our daily labour we may remember the truths that we learnt, and may carry out the resolutions we made on thy holy day. Keep us from sin and strengthen us to do thy holy will, that we may never forget that we are yours and serve you through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Lent 2014 Oscar Romero - Blood and Sweat

We are running a trip to St Albans Cathedral to participate in an evening lecture 'Witness of Oscar Romero's Life and Death'. This is being offered by the Abbey, as part of the Dedication 900 lecture series.

The event takes place on Monday 23 March and we will need to be in St Albans for 7.30pm - so expect to leave Bedford around 5.30pm. Tickets will cost £5. The lecture will take place in the crypt and will be given by Jan Graffius who is Curator of the extraordinary collections held at the Jesuit College at Stonyhurst in Lancashire, which has good claim to be the oldest museum in Britain. Her work with their unique collection of English Catholic relics and artefacts led directly to her involvement in the Romero Trust project to conserve the relics and possessions of Archbishop Oscar Romero, who was murdered by Salvadoran death squads in 1980, and who appears among the new martyr statues being installed at St Albans Cathedral. Romero's poignant bloodstained clothing and his simple possessions are preserved today in his tiny house in San Salvador, where they are a focus for pilgrims worldwide. Jan's work has revealed some startling insights into Romero's life and the last few seconds before his death. Such insights are valuable in a world where truth and justice are all too often clouded by powerful vested interests, and, with the likelihood of Romero's imminent beatification by the Vatican, this is a story with deep relevance for our own times. Tutor: Jan Graffius, Curator of Stonyhurst College

Archbishop of Canterbury's New Year Message

The National Memorial Arboretum is a place of reflection, remembrance and prayer, dedicated to those who have served, suffered or sacrificed for this country. To those who are remembered here, we owe a debt of unspeakable gratitude. This New Year is particularly significant, marking the end of one of the longest wars that our modern services have fought. There is a danger that the sacrifice and suffering of those caught up in war and disaster will slip from our minds.

Each day brings its toll of bad news, of disasters inflicted on the innocent by war and disease. In 2014 we saw so much of that in the Middle East, in north-east Nigeria, with the persecution of Christians and other minorities. And in the week before Christmas itself, there was the horrendous massacre of children in Pakistan.

There is so much suffering that at the New Year it is tempting to look inwards in despair. But we are not a country that turns our back on the suffering and the weak and the helpless.

In the week just before Christmas I was in Sierra Leone, very briefly. There I saw the result of British generosity, of aid poured in to support a country torn apart by Ebola, and the extraordinary dedication of British service personnel, working with charities, funded by our aid budget.

I saw the profound heroism of local people dealing with something that none of us understand which makes lethal the basic instincts of touch and embrace for the sick and the dying.

The week before that I was in the South Sudan, and saw again the open-handedness of the British people who have contributed to a programme that has saved one and a half million sufferers, war-battered, from starvation.

We are a country formed in a Christian heritage, which calls us to sacrifice and self-giving, to open-handedness and hospitality.

In the last year, travelling all over the world to see Anglican Churches and to meet their leaders, with my wife, we've seen the impact of this country both historically and today.

When we are at our best, living out the generosity of Jesus Christ, as that has formed itself in our national character; when we turn outwards and use our best resources to change this world in which we live; we see what a wonderful heritage we have - and the hope we can bring to the poorest, and those with the greatest suffering on the face of our planet.

So what do we hope for in 2015? My hope and prayer is that we are the kind of country that goes on looking outwards; that is full of a generous spirit. Because when we're generous we find joy and others find comfort and hope.

So may that joy and comfort be yours in this coming year.

Justin Welby

Archbishop of Canterbury

Rest In Peace

On the Sunday following a funeral service we remember in church those who have died. We light a candle to symbolise the light of Christ which eternally shines and brings hope. If you would like a person remembered in our service when the candle is lit, perhaps on an anniversary or birthday, please inform the ministers, or telephone the church office

Derick Alan Butterfield

May the souls of all the faithful departed through the mercy of God, rest in peace and rise in glory. Amen.'
